- The Details
 - Paying with Splitit offers better management of your budget by reserving the amount from your existing credit line and allowing you to use your cash flow for other purchases.
 - When you make your purchase using Splitit, your credit card is authorized and then charged for your first installment straight away or when the goods are shipped. Subsequent monthly installments are automatically taken on this date each month. At the same time, an authorization (hold) is taken for the total amount remaining. This is a temporary hold during which time your available credit is reduced by the authorization amount. The amount on hold is released back into your available funds on your credit card within 30 days. (often shorter)
 - You must maintain sufficient available credit on your credit card for the monthly installment amounts.
 - Your standard credit card terms and conditions still apply.

FAQs

- How does Splitit work?
 - At the time of the purchase, the first installment is captured and the remaining plan balance is placed on hold. The hold will be released within the next 30 days. Then, each month, according to the shopper's payment plan, the installment amount is collected.

- o Here is an example of how the service works for a customer buying a TV totaling $1,000 in 5 installments of $200 each:
 - 1. Splitit obtains authorization from the credit card company for the remaining balance of the plan $800. This is not a charge on the card.
 - 2. The credit card company then charges the shopper $200 for the first payment.
 - 3. During the second month, the shopper will be charged the second installment of $200.

- Does this affect my credit score?
 - o No. If you use a Splitit installment plan there is no impact on your credit score. The bank simply sees the individual installment charges each month.
- What if I don't have the available credit on one card for the full amount of the purchase?
 - o We can take 2 cards and create 2 payment plans to cover the full amount
 - o You can have the shopper call the bank and ask for an extended line of credit if they have been good cardholders.
- How do I receive a report of my installments?
 - o When you make a purchase using Splitit, you will be asked to provide your email. Splitit sends you credentials so you can log in to the Splitit consumer portal to check your installment status and view other information regarding your purchase. The portal can also be found in the footer of the website.
- Can I pay off my installments early?
 - o Yes, you can. This option is available on your Splitit consumer portal or you can contact our customer care at support@splitit.com.
- What if my credit card gets lost or stolen?
 - o If something happens to your credit card, please do the following:
 - Contact your card company to report the card lost.
 - Visit the Splitit portal and update your payment plan with another credit card. Go to the "payment plan information" tab, select your payment plan and click "update card details." Enter the new credit card details and click "confirm."
 - If you are having any trouble, please email support@splitit.com
- Why don't you allow debit? [if applicable]
 - o Allowing an installment plan to run on a debit card, where authorizations can not be held for an extended period of time, poses a greater risk for everyone. At this time the current infrastructure can not accept debit cards for that reason
